

HSEM 301 : Junior Honors Seminar

Through challenging readings, writing, demonstrations, exercises, presentations, and other activities, students approach a topic of their choosing. The topic frames a study of the contemporary world by exploring the interrelationships of several countries or by comparing two or more countries outside of the United States. An inter-divisional team of faculty will provide instruction. The course satisfies requirements for WI and GAL.

Credits 4.0