

ECON 301 : Intermediate Microeconomics

Intermediate microeconomics is a study of consumer behavior, demand analysis, market development, output determination, cost analysis, and pure competition. The course includes exposure to mathematical constructs

Credits 3.0

Prerequisites

ECON 201, and either BUSI/ECON 205 or MATH 201.