

PHYS 303 : Plasma Physics

This course examines the properties of plasmas, a collection of charged particles that exhibit collective behavior, and which are much more common than the other phases of matter (solids, liquids, and gases) when the entire known universe is considered, and which are becoming increasingly common in modern technologies.

Credits 3.0

Prerequisite Courses

PHYS 201

PHYS 202

PHYS 241

MATH 201

MATH 202