

PSYC 470 : Internship in Psychology

Internships provide students with off-campus exposure to the life and work of professional psychologists. All internships must have the approval of the Psychology Department faculty and are supervised and evaluated by the departmental internship coordinator and by a psychologist in the field. A journal and a written summary of the student's experiences and their relationship to pertinent theories and practices of psychology is required.

Credits 2.0-4

Prerequisites

Declared Psychology or Psychology and Education Interdisciplinary major; junior standing or permission of the instructor.