

COMM 101 : Introduction to Communication

This course examines the foundations of communication, including communication between individuals, language, and nonverbal codes and also mass media history and theory, including newspapers, radio, television, and digital media.

Credits 3.0